And so, I always try to think, okay, am I the kind of leader that our lāhui deserves? Are my actions aligned with that and holding myself accountable to our lāhui? At the end of the day, we all work in political state structures, federal structures, and other structures. At the end of the day though, what is our accountability to our lāhui? And I know in working with this commission and individuals and collectively, I have always seen the commission work toward the betterment of the lāhui and doing things that are right and making sacrifices for that. So, I just want to call that out to Mahalo for those, those models to emulate. And then those accountabilities, especially as I, you know, transition off, but are still in the community in support of good pono leadership. So, I just shared that chair with us, with our commission as wehena today.” Ua mahalo ka Luna Ho‘omalu Ka‘anā‘anā i ka Lālā Komikina Hussey i ka wehe ‘ana i ka papa hana.
